DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claims 20 and 25 recite the broad recitation at least 800 degrees C, and the claim also recites preferably at least 850 degrees C, even more preferably at least 900 degrees C which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -
(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4-6 and 13-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Harada et al. (Harada), U.S. Patent 3,963,522.

The Harada patent discloses the claimed product and the method of making it comprising placing a silver containing material in contact with a ceramic, such as the alumina claimed, and heating the combination including the range of temperatures recited in the claims (see Abstract and claims 1-3). The reference further discloses the claimed shapes (see figure 2).

Therefore, since the reference discloses each and every limitation, the claims are anticipated.

Claims 1, 4-6, 13-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by European Patent Application 0 256 963 to Newkirk et al.

The Newkirk reference discloses the claimed product and the method of making it comprising placing a silver containing material in contact with a ceramic, such as the alumina claimed, and heating the combination including the range of temperatures recited in the claims (see Abstract and page 5, lines 1-10 and example 5 on page 9). Therefore, since the reference discloses each and every limitation, the claims are anticipated.

Claims 1, 4-10, 13-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shum et al. (Shum), U.S. Patent 4,388,347.

The Shum patent discloses the claimed product and the method of making it comprising placing a silver containing material in contact with a ceramic, such as the alumina claimed, and heating the combination including the range of temperatures recited in the claims (see column 2, lines 5-28). The reference further discloses the claimed layers (see col. 2). The reference further discloses the use of steel under the ceramic layer treated according to the method (see col. 7, lines 13-20).

Therefore, since the reference discloses each and every limitation, the claims are anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 2-3 and 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shum as applied to claims above, and further in view of Harada.

The Shum reference does not disclose the thickness of the layer or the final use of the component as the bipolar plate.

The Harada patent is cited to show the use of a ceramic layer containing the silver to form components that can be used in the fuel cell (see col. 1, lines 1-35).

Art Unit: 1753

In any event, it has been well settled that such intended use limitation of a product is given little or no patentable weight. In re Heck 114 USPQ 161 (CCPA 1957).

Further, the thickness of the layer would not by itself impart patentability, since it has been well settled that change in size of an article is obvious unless the change produces an unexpected result. In re Rose 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

Consequently, the invention as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosure of the Shum by varying the thickness, because such modification has been well settled that such modification would have been obvious to the ordinary artisan.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 21-24 are allowable over the prior art of record.

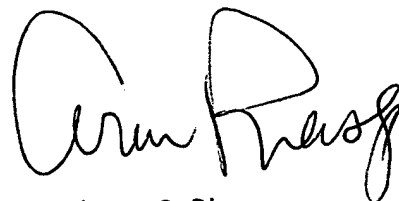

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: none of the prior art of record fairly discloses or renders obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art the steps of forming the ceramic layer while causing the silver to occur in and create electrically conductive pathways through the ceramic layer.
